U.S. Invasion Repulsed!

THE INVADERS CAME under cover of the rain and mist, coming ashore at Fort St. Joseph last Friday morning. With Islanders asleep in their beds or going about their usual business, there was no warning of any hostilities, and certainly not of any invasion by American troops!

Luckily, a small contingent of British soldiers from the Royal Newfoundland Regiment and the Glengarry Light Infantry

Without hesitation, the combined force of British troops quickly formed up their battle lines, loaded their muskets and bravely marched out to confront the invaders. It was a quick and decisive battle, in spite of the challenges the soldiers faced in keeping their 'black powder' dry in the rain and wind. After several sharp volleys, the air thick with gunpowder smoke, the invaders retreated to their boats and left. There were no casualties reported on either side.

happened to be visiting the Fort from their base at Fort Willow in Barrie. They had come to Fort St. Joseph from their temporary base at Ermatinger House in the Soo that morning - part of their 'pilgrimage' to visit the historic forts and sites along the upper Great Lakes that played major roles in the War of 1812, the last time Canada had been invaded.

At the end of the morning's 'hostilities', the British Union Jack, although torn in half by the biting wind, still proudly flew over our Fort! Our thanks and gratitude to 'The King's Men' of Fort Willow, for saving our beloved Island, and for giving us such a great show - and also to the wonderful staff of Fort St. Joseph for providing such good, hot coffee and cookies!

The Rest of the Story About Jack O' Lanterns

THIS STORY HAS SEVERAL VERSIONS based on an old Irish legend about a drunk named Jack. One day he was out in the woods and tricked Satan into climbing a tree to throw down some fruit. Once Satan had helped him, he carved a cross into the tree and trapped him there. He then struck a deal that, in exchange for being freed, Satan would leave his soul alone when he died.

This backfired when Jack died, since Heaven would not take him in. When he kept bothering the Devil to let him into Hell, the Devil gave him a burning ember instead. He carried the ember in a hollowed out turnip (sometimes described as rotten) to light his way, as he wandered through eternal darkness on the earth. Eventually the turnip was replaced with the pumpkin in America and became the modern Jack-o-Lantern.

Hilton Beach Jail Gets 'Life'!

By Lavera Crack

THERE WAS A LOT MORE TRAFFIC on South Street, Saturday morning, with several volunteers working, and curious onlookers dropping by, to see what all the hammering was about. Thankfully, the rain held off as restoration work began on the old "lock up" (jail).

The first order of business was to remove a tree overhanging the roof. Charlie Nelson took on this project with his backhoe. Next, he carefully removed the front part of the old roof to expose the rafters. All rotten wood will be replaced with donated lumber, courtesy of Ralph Nelson. The rear section is quite salvageable, with only a few boards needing replacement.

Up in the bucket went Donna Lambert, trusty rake in hand. Her assignment was to pull out all the debris left from Charlie's roof punch. Tarps were used to catch the old shingles, rotten wood, moss, ant & hornet nests. Wayne Ingram provided a dump trailer, which was filled by the willing hands of Dana Stevens, Nancy Keenan, Donna Lambert and Lavera Crack.

Up went the scaffolding by Wilfred Stevens, Wayne Ingram and John Crack. Wayne and Wilfred then began the task of replacing the roof.

According to an article in the old Plow and Packet, October 2006 issue, this structure was likely built in 1888. It performed its duties until 1920, although the Township of Hilton and the Village of Hilton Beach continued to appoint Constables after it closed, to keep the peace and enforce the bylaws.

The Hilton Jail has the distinction of being the second smallest jail in

Unexpected Natural Cleaners

Around-the-house staples that moonlight as dirt busters

Ketchup: Remove tarnish from copper and brass cookware. Squeeze ketchup onto a cloth and rub it on pots and pans. They should go back to their coppery color in minutes. Rinse with warm water and dry with a towel.

Oatmeal: Scrub very dirty hands. Make a thick paste of oatmeal and water; rinse well.

Rice: Clean the inside of a vase or a thin-necked bottle. Fill three quarters of the vessel with warm water and add a tablespoon of uncooked rice. Cup your hand over the opening, shake vigorously, and rinse.

Cornstarch: Clean grease spills on carpets. Pour cornstarch onto spots and let sit for 15 to 30 minutes before vacuuming.

Hydrogen Peroxide: Disinfect a keyboard. Dip a cotton swab in hydrogen peroxide to get into those nooks and crannies.

Rubbing Alcohol: Erase permanent-marker stains from finished wood floors or solid-surface countertops. Pour rubbing alcohol onto a cotton ball and apply. Test on hidden area first.

Ontario and perhaps in all of North America, with a frontage of 20 feet, 6 inches and a depth of 16 feet, 8 inches. This small, thick-walled concrete building has three cells with flat iron grid doors, pressed tin ceilings and two elongated iron-barred windows facing the street.

Local miscreants were 'sentenced' to serve time in the jail, but they were never actually locked in! They simply 'served their time' then went home! Only one 'criminal' is known to have stayed in jail overnight.

In 1920, the Hilton Jail took on a new role when the local Women's Institute decided this would be a good building to set up a Library to serve the community. These women installed the shelving themselves to save the carpenter's fee. The Library was housed in the jail until 1929 when plans began to build a new library on Main Street.

The "Jail Committee" made up of volunteers began organizing in 2006, submitting a proposal to the Village of Hilton Beach Council to preserve this historic building. This proposal was accepted by Council and minor fundraising began. Donations to date total approximately $900. Plans are now underway, thanks to Tim Keenan, for a major fundraiser. He commissioned his friend Ken Bradford, a well known local artist, to paint the Hilton Jail. Tim purchased the painting and all rights to reproduce it. The painting is now in the process of being made into prints to be sold, with all proceeds going to the preservation and refurbishing of the "Lock Up". More information can be obtained from Tracy Stevens or Donna Lambert, Committee members.

The restored jail will take on its new life as a local tourist attraction.

So a word of caution to those young vandals who broke the sash on the door the other night and ran off - we will soon have a place to accommodate you for the night!

A Big 'Deposit' to the Food Bank!

NATALIE ALLARD, OWNER of the Hilton Beach Inn, proudly delivers the proceeds from her recent 'People Auction' to benefit our Food Bank.

On Saturday, September 3rd, Natalie invited her customers to bid on the services of several local volunteers, with the proceeds to be donated to the Food Bank. The auction raised over $700 – money that's badly-needed to provide nourishing food for more than 30 local families.

"It seems that generous donations of money to the Food Bank are up this year, but donations of actual food are down", says Natalie. "With Thanksgiving coming, we felt that we should concentrate on the 'food' side!"

With the help of Tony Trecroce, who borrowed a truck, and Bill Van Schaik, who helped with the shopping, Natalie took the money raised to a grocery store and returned with a load of staple foods, carefully selected for their practicality and 'shelf life'.

When praised for her efforts, Natalie characteristically shrugged off any personal credit. "We were happy and proud to do it!" she smiled. "The biggest thanks go to all of the participants – volunteers and bidders – in our People Auction. It's their generosity and caring that made this possible!"

Pride is what we have. Vanity is what others have.

Some drink at the fountain of knowledge.
Others just gargle.

Hilton Beach Marina a Beehive of Activity!

THE HILTON BEACH MARINA was buzzing with activity Saturday, as most of the 'resident' sailboats were hoisted out of the water onto cradles for their winter storage.

The work crew was impressively organized, literally swarming all over the boats! As one boat was being secured in its cradle on shore, another was being hoisted, while another was being readied for lifting, while still more were being brought over from their dock spaces to await their turn. It was a well-orchestrated and marvelous event to watch from a safe distance, with no accidents, injuries or misadventures to any boats, workers or spectators!

At the end of the day, only a few lonely boats still remained forlornly in the water, their owners no doubt hoping for that 'just one last outing'!

Little Johnny's kindergarten class was on a field trip to their local police station where they saw pictures tacked to a bulletin board of the 10 most wanted. One of the youngsters pointed to a picture and asked,

"Is it really the photo of a wanted person". "Yes," said the policeman.

"The detectives want very badly to capture him".

Little Johnny asked, "Why didn't you keep him when you took his picture?"

QUESTION: I started using the new MSN Messenger 9 and I wonder what happened to my contact list?

ANSWER: Your contact list is not missing and has not been deleted by Microsoft in the last flurry of modifications to the old Messenger. Rest assured that you are not the only one to question recent changes. Upon signing into MSN Messenger 9 the familiar contact list for offline and online contacts has been repositioned to the bottom of a scroll list. Recently added features have displaced the familiar offline/online contact list that would normally appear at the beginning of each session. The newly added features are labeled Favourites, Groups, Friends, and What's New. To remove unwanted features, locate the Change Contact List Layout button on the toolbar bar containing the search box, the Add a Contact button, and the very, very important Show Menu button. Click on Change Contact List Layout. The Options Layout window pops up. Clear checkmarks from checkboxes for the following options: Show Favourites, Show Groups, Show the Tab Bar, and Show the What's New List. Click OK. More like the classic Messenger? Get back into Change Contact list Layout. Place a checkmark in checkboxes for Show Offline Contacts and Show Offline Contacts in a Separate Category. Click OK. Now you will be able to tell who is offline or online more easily. Beware of the small arrow-head to the left of each category name. This is a very small control and blends into the general background too easily. As your mouse pointer rolls across this control, the arrow-head glows. Left click the arrow-head to collapse or expand the offline and online contact lists. The graphic designers outdid themselves by adding a slight directional shift to acknowledge successful mouse clicks. Next to the Change Contact List Layout button find the Show Menu button. Left click on Show Menu. On the drop-down menu, left click on Show Menu Bar. This reveals the classic menu bar across the Messenger window for those familiar with the old menu system. Thank you Microsoft for allowing customization.

QUESTION: How do I get the new MSN Messenger 9?

ANSWER: Use your favourite search engine or Google the following keywords: download messenger 9. This should take you to, download.live.com, a Microsoft website. Click on Download. The first stage is a small download (1 mb) which puts the Windows Live Installer program on your computer. Choose RUN. On the next pop-up, click RUN also. This starts the full Windows Live installation process. From the selection list of available Windows Live add-ins, choose only Messenger. This download alone will exceed 50 megabytes and should be a real concern to anyone still on dial-up. Follow directions. Don't accept any plug nickels. Good luck!

New Funding for Algoma R.I.D.E. Program

More Police Checks Mean Safer Roads in Algoma-Manitoulin

The Ontario government is helping to reduce car accidents and save lives in Algoma-Manitoulin by supporting police officers who conduct Reduce Impaired Driving Everywhere (R.I.D.E.) spot checks.

"R.I.D.E. is one of the most effective programs in North America to combat drinking and driving and make Ontario's roads even safer. More police checks mean safer roads," said Mike Brown, MPP for Algoma-Manitoulin.

Police services in Algoma-Manitoulin will receive a total of $88,500 for this year's R.I.D.E. efforts. 170 Municipal and First Nations police services and OPP offices across Ontario will immediately benefit from increased funding. More than 8,000 Ontario police officers will be funded for a second year – double the number of officers compared to 2007-2008.

In 2008-2009, Ontario increased its commitment from $1.2 million to $2.4 million to support year round spot checks. That amount will be maintained for 2009-2010.

Last year, police conducted close to 784,000 spot checks, resulting in 970 impaired driving charges and 1,900 12-hour licence suspensions. The visibility of R.I.D.E. spot checks also serve as an effective public education and awareness campaign to deter impaired driving.

The Lost Ring

Here's a heart-warming story about how things can work out if you care and try enough, written for us by an Island resident who wishes to remain anonymous.

"About 17 years ago my daughter was going to Lake State University in Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan. While out with friends, she found a high school graduation ring that obviously belonged to a male. She tried to no avail to find the rightful owner. When she came home, she told me how she had found the ring. She gave it to me and told me to do with it as I pleased.

I put it away and every once and a while I would take it out and look at it, and wonder how I could return it to the rightful owner. I showed it to many friends over the years and was given a lot of suggestions as to what could be done with it. One was to melt it down and make myself something out of it. There was a lot of gold in the ring and a large blue stone, but it was engraved with a name inside and some personal achievements in sports, honouring this person. I just couldn't bring myself to do anything with it because I knew it wasn't mine and somewhere someone was missing this treasure.

Well, I pulled it out again and again - it haunted me. I knew the ring had come from a small city in Michigan. Suddenly, it dawned on me! I had made a friend who was a Dean, retired from the Michigan School system. I e-mailed him and, in a few days, he called me back with a phone number for the high school from which the owner had graduated.

After talking with the secretary at the school, I felt sure I was on the right track. I knew they could not give me any information over the phone. She said someone would call me back. I left my name and number and waited for the call. That night, I received a call from a man in Boca Raton, Florida. It wasn't long into the conversation that I knew I now had the rightful owner!

I mailed it through our terrific Canadian snail mail and, after almost two weeks, I got a call from him. He was so excited he could hardly talk. It had been his high school graduation gift from his Mom who just happened to be a teacher at the same high school he graduated from, and still is to this day.

When he told me how happy he was, I told him he couldn't be any happier than me, knowing the ring was finally back where it belonged."

Thanks for sharing this great story with us!
