Family Day - Mostly Melted Away

Kids Paint Day in Hilton Beach was unfortunately the only of 3 planned Family Day weekend activities not to be cancelled due to unseasonable warmth. While most of us were thrilled with the mild weather this past long weekend, many in Hilton Beach, and those from outside of the village who planned to attend the various events, were left disappointed. There was no sledding down South Street, no skating or snow machine rides, and the poor snowmen melted before they even were born. But all was not lost. Hilton Beach still put on their kids paint day on Saturday for aspiring artists.

Thanks to some good instructions from first time painting teacher Paula Cormier, each kid left with a work of art that they, along with their parents, can be proud to display in their homes. Paints and canvases were supplied, as well as a snack, and the kids enjoyed themselves. You might think “well of course a paintbrush was supplied,” but they actually used many different sized brushes to complete the fine details on the works of art. Owls were the theme for the painting, with each step explained, so regardless of what skill level the kids came in with the results were great across the board. More paint days are likely in the future.

While it’s too bad many of the activities planned did not get to happen, hopefully everyone still got to spend an enjoyable long weekend with their families. There’s always next year and it will probably be incredibly cold and snowy.

Increasing Cycling Profile on St. Joseph

All 3 townships, and The Village of Hilton Beach are working together to have St. Joseph Island become a member of the Waterfront Regeneration Trust (WRT). This will give cycling on the island a much higher profile with additional levels of promotion that was not available prior to this at minimal municipal investment.

Last year, a cycling study identified a main cycling route on St. Joseph Island mostly along hwy 548. What this would mean is that the Island bike routes would be included on tourism maps, websites, both locally and provincially. It would draw both the casual day trip rider, who cycle along regional trails and visit local attractions, and also the long-distance cyclist, who travel between provinces and communities for cycling. Each type of cyclist would view the Island as an ideal place to bike with beautiful scenery, well maintained roads and access to amenities. The Island can attract both cyclists who arrive by car or by boat from Hilton Beach and Richards Landing marinas.

Cycling tourism is booming; over 2 million Canadian visitors spent $391 million cycling while traveling in Ontario, and these numbers are trending upward. The goal of these routes would be to link communities along the north shore to Sudbury. We have certainly seen a fair number of cyclists from our home, which is on hwy 548, and throughout the Island, we see the potential for further expansion and promotion. While it's beyond our abilities, as people who rarely cycle, we can certainly see the appeal of someone coming for a vacation to cycle around the entire island and enjoying various other activities while they are here. It would be great for local businesses. The goal of joining the Waterfront Regeneration Trust is to promote tourism. All cyclists will benefit from improved route maps, signage and additional general maintenance that would happen as a result of WRT membership.

By being included in all WRT media efforts the Lake Huron North Channel, cycling routes would help attract additional tourism not only from neighbouring northern Ontario regions but, southern Ontario (where WRT is based) and the US as well. Having set routes and signage letting you know the distances traveled may also give you the push to get out and cycle and perhaps visit local attractions you never get around to going to and also, of course, living a healthier lifestyle.

ST. JOSEPH TOWNSHIP PUBLIC LIBRARY UPDATE

“BETWEEN THE LINES” BROUGHT TO YOU BY ST. JOSEPH TOWNSHIP PUBLIC LIBRARY

A big welcome back to our Permanent Librarian Kristina Adams. She has great ideas for new programs and activities so check out our Facebook page and visit the Library to see what's happening. Our acting Librarian Patti Stevens is getting some well deserved time off, especially on Saturdays, and the Library Board wants to say Thank You for her dedication and professionalism in keeping the Library running smoothly over the past year.

The Library Board will be advertising for a part time Librarian Assistant as a dependable back up for Kristina and Patti. The position is a difficult one to fill because there are no guaranteed hours and when the person is needed it will be on very short notice. The successful candidate will need computer skills, be an avid reader of fiction and/or nonfiction, have outstanding communication skills, have a post secondary degree or certificate and/or a bachelor degree in education, library science, social services or other applicable field.

We will also be looking for a summer student, a minimum of 15 years old, to work for 8 weeks in July & August. Watch the Island Clippings and our Facebook page for more information. We also hope our grade seven volunteer will return this summer. She was an inspiration to everyone and accomplished several tasks.

A wonderful volunteer came forward to start a Book Club at the Library. Their first meeting was on Thursday, February 9, and chose the novel Nineteen Eighty-Four, often published as 1984, by English author George Orwell. My university professor in Literature said it was not impossible that such a society could develop in the future. Disheartening to know that his prophesy from the early 70s may be coming true in the world today.

Another patron, Tracy Howson came forward and is doing book reviews on non fiction books in the Island Clippings. Note that the Hilton Union Public Library will also carry the books Tracy is reviewing.

The winner of our “Family Literacy Day” draw was Roger Chandler and he received James Paterson's latest book donated by one of our Library Board Members.

How are you doing on our Reading Challenge to read 26 different types of books in 2017? The list is available on Facebook and at the Library. One of our younger patrons wondered if she could find a book written by someone younger than her. Any aspiring young authors out there with a published book we do not know about?

Like us on Facebook or visit and let us know how we are doing to meet the needs of our Community. All ideas and concerns are welcome.

New Column: Book Reviews!

by Tracy Howson.

Grit: The Power of Passion and Perseverance

Angela Duckworth

HarperCollins 2016

Grit is a book for anyone looking for insights and a roadmap for themselves, their children or their employees, to be successful. Angela Duckworth's innovative research tackles the long asked question of why some people succeed and others fail.

She uses stories to help explain her research, and data to back up her findings. An early story in the book on who survived the grueling US West Point's Military Academy Beast Barracks is fascinating.

She delves into why most people quit when the going gets tough, and why others prevail. She calls these people Gritty. She proposes that Grit is more important than talent or intellect in reaching one's potential and sense of fulfilment. You can take a version of the Grit Scale Duckworth used in her research to answer the question "How gritty are you?"

Grit defined as passion + long term persistence; Passion or life's purpose, contrary to what we may of have believed, rarely hits us like a lightning bolt or with a great a-ha, but it emerges slowly based on first an interest, followed by exploration and with time increasing depth and affiliation. She writes that rather than encourage kids to "follow their passion" having no idea what that is, begin with "foster a passion" with what interests them.

Persistence, is the ability to stick with it, to struggle when it is hard, a relentless pursuit.

In the book, Duckworth goes into depth on how we become Gritty,

1. The inside out; You can learn to discover, to develop and to deepen your interest. You can acquire the practice/habit of discipline. You can cultivate a sense of purpose and meaning. And you can teach yourself hope.
2. The outside in; Through how we parent (grid to identify parenting style), how coach, or how manage a workplace to create a culture of Grit.

Duckworth talks of the importance of deliberate practice, the habit of rigorous, high quality thoughtful training, and one's mindset. She recognizes that the culture or environment we live in powerfully shapes us. So if you want to be Grittier, she suggests, find a Gritty culture and join in.

Some questions she addresses are "does being Gritty make you happier?", she alludes that it can, it can also make you more resilient, and "can anyone be too Gritty?" she muses –it's unlikely – or at least rare.

Duckworth doesn't believe Grit is the only thing that matters. Although it is the focus of this book, she writes there are other virtue clusters and Grit is just one.

If this book review piques your interest, borrow the book from St Joseph Twp. Public Library, and go get gritty.

Peanut Squares
With milk chocolate and oats

8 x 8 pan

½ cup unsalted butter, softened (120 ml)
½ cup brown sugar (120 ml)
½ cup white sugar (120 ml)
1/3 cup smooth, natural peanut butter (80 ml)
1 egg
½ tsp vanilla (2.5 ml)
¾ cup rolled oats (180 ml)
1 cup unbleached flour (240 ml)
½ tsp baking soda
1/3 tsp salt (1.2 ml)
4 oz milk chocolate, chopped into large chunks (120 g)

Icing

½ cup peanut butter (120 ml)
2 Tbsp soft butter (30 ml)
½ tsp vanilla (2.5 ml)
1 cup icing sugar (240 ml)
¼ cup heavy cream (60 ml)

Pre-heat oven to 350 F. Grease an 8 x 8 inch pan and set aside. Cream together the butter, sugars and peanut butter until light and fluffy. Add the egg and vanilla and mix well.

Combine the oats, flour, soda and salt in a separate bowl. Add this to the butter/peanut butter mix and stir well. Fold in the chocolate chunks. Spread into the prepared pan and bake 25 minutes. Set aside to cool.

Prepare the icing by creaming together the peanut butter, butter and vanilla. Blend in icing sugar. Stir in cream until you get a nice spreading consistency, using more if necessary. Ice the cooled squares and decorate with additional melted milk chocolate drizzled over top, if you like. Divide into squares.

(I actually prefer dark semi sweet chocolate) (your choice)

Bon appetit

THANK YOU

The family of Kathleen (Kay) Kent-Roberts would like to give a heartfelt thank you to everyone who supported us during this time of loss. We truly appreciated the generous outpouring of support, prayers, cards, flowers and donations in her memory. Your generosity was so appreciated during this difficult time. A special thank you to Matthews Memorial Hospital and the Sault Area Hospital for the care that they gave to Kay. We would also like to thank Lane Eddy for his kind words and for the women of the Free Methodist Church on St. Joseph Island for the food and wonderful support that they gave during the memorial service. Thank you to everyone who came to share our memories of a wonderful wife, mother, grandmother, great grandmother, great great grandmother and friend. Kay will be greatly missed, but we are comforted by the knowledge that we have a wonderful family, and dedicated friends, who share in our grief. Thank you.
