Mischief On Hamilton Court

One of the real benefits of living here is the little amount of crime and relative safety we get to experience. Sure, there are occasional incidents, but even those are few and far between. We learned this past week that some community mail boxes were knocked down on Hamilton Court and X Line. While this may seem as no big deal to some, we can certainly see how this could deeply effect others. Whether there was a package someone ordered that could have been damaged, or the sheer fact that the mailboxes were no longer accessible for those waiting to pay their bills or even receiving a cherished birthday card from a grandchild, this kind of mischief is clearly unacceptable.

We are not publishing this as lead story to hunt down those responsible as it was likely younger people with nothing to do and got a little out of hand, but to remind those who did this, or engage in similar behaviours that they could be really effecting someone when they think this is simply harmless mischief. We are fortunate to get our mail to our own box, but if this had been our community box, we would be very upset. There's always going to be something better to do to cure boredom than this. You probably don't have to look very far to find it, and we don't mean tearing up the streets with tire marks, either.

Weekly Book Review

by Tracy Howson

Consumed; Food for a Finite Planet

Written by Sarah Elton

Published by University of Chicago Press (2013)
(318 pgs.)

Sarah Elton is also the author of "Locavore", and a food columnist for CBC living in Toronto.

When my husband saw that I had brought home "Consumed" he asked if it was because of the previous weeks' book "The Soul of Money" written by Lynne Twist. Twist is heavily involved in efforts to defeat world hunger. I wish I could say it was intentional -but it wasn't. However, as you delve into "Consumed" the root cause of the problem is similar if not the same.

This book is a call to arms about the future of food. Most people take for granted that they can and will be able to access food cheaply and easily in the future. She discusses the economics, politics and science of farming. She digs deep into how and why we must find sustainable ways of growing food, and why our future and our children's future depends on it. And the future date she uses is 2050 -not that far away.

This is a heavily researched book. Elton has travelled the world investigating food and farming, and she challenges assumptions that only mega farms and big business can we feed the world of the future. She examines agricultural landscapes around the world that have lasted millennia. Through her eyes you will take a world tour visiting France, China, India, Nepal, and others as well as Canada and the US. I enjoyed her writing. Not only was it about one of the most important issues facing humankind, but through her story telling ability, one gets a sense of place and people, whether it's an octogenarian cheese maker in a remote village of France, or a successful farmer on her wee plot in India.

If Michael Pollan's work interests you, I suspect so will Sarah Elton's. Despite the challenges we are facing - I found the book inspiring. She urges all of us to recognize that we are all part of a superorganism - our planet earth. She closes with "through building good, clean, and fair food systems in communities around the world we can find this opportunity to love one another, to love this finite planet and move into the future."

"Consumed" is available at the Hilton Union Public Library

Midland Painted Turtle

Painted turtles are the most common native turtle in North America and its range is from Canada to Mexico. It can be found in 10 of Canada’s provinces. These turtles, with their dark olive coloured shells and yellow striped heads, are commonly mistaken for red-eared sliders. There are four subspecies of painted turtles.

Lakes, ponds, slow moving streams and marshes are their habitats where they forage for plants and animals, though each subspecies of painted turtle has a slightly different diet. As they age they move to more of a plant based diet from a protien based diet. Due to the shell markings and our location we are 95% sure this is a midland painted turtle, spotted on Adcock Lake. The other possibility is a western painted, but the subspecies are nearly identical.

This time of year the turtles are just coming out of hibernation and are still sluggish, most likely to be seen basking on logs. Painted turtles were common in the pet trade, and while you may be tempted to take of one these guys home, especially when the babies hatch, just a reminder that it is illegal to keep species native to Ontario.

The turtle pictured is a male, note the longer claws. Male turtles also have a thicker tale. The turtles you are most likely to encounter outside of the lake environment are females. Not just any females, but females either looking for somewhere to nest or coming back from nesting. While the roads may be tempting places for them to bask, they are more likely to remain on logs or rocks in the water so they can “slide” away from danger.

Please be careful as we have seen several crossing roads in summers past visiting and all turtles we saw were indeed females. Hopefully this year we will get a chance to see babies. If you happen to see some hatchlings feel free to give us a shout or email.

ST. JOSEPH TOWNSHIP PUBLIC LIBRARY UPDATE

“BETWEEN THE LINE$” BROUGHT TO YOU BY $T. JO$EPH TOWN$HIP PUBLIC LIBRARY

The Library needs your Understanding and $upport over the next several months. If everything comes together, this will be a Summer of Renovation & Construction. A “Request for Quotations” has already gone out to seek a contractor to rebuild the barrier free ramp at the rear of the library. In addition to that project, we need to replace the roof coverings on both the new extension built in 1985, and the original building built in 1942. We have a dilemma with the original building because the roof tiles are made of a$be$t$o$.

The Library Board is looking at either high grade asphalt shingles or metal to reroof the Library. We are looking at the colour red if we go for metal. Green came in second but it will all come down to cost. To complicate matters, the Library has experienced some minor flooding. The cause has yet to be determined but will have to be addressed to prevent any permanent damage. The “Collective Memory” and Library Board Minutes reveal no past flooding issues. If anyone knows any “alternative facts” PLEASE let us know. If the source of the flooding is in our Book Drop, it may have to be changed to one that stands alone. If necessary the Book Drop could be similar to the one at Hilton Union’s Library.

A generous amount donated to the Library by an anonymous patron decades ago has grown into a healthy $avings Account. Those savings, along with assistance from the Township of St. Joseph, which we are affiliated with in a beneficial partnership, will cover many of the above costs. However, all of our $avings Accounts and the generous help from the Township will not cover everything. Therefore the Library Board will be undertaking several fundraising efforts for the remainder of the year. Watch next month’s article for more specific information and ways you can help us out.

In addition, we will not know until May 31, 2017 if we are successful in receiving the grant from the Rick Hansen Foundation for our accessible washroom project, “Raising the Throne”. Work on the crawl space under the original building needs to be undertaken to prevent access to pests and improve energy efficiency during the winter. One more thing: it appears we have had bats in both our attics. Once the roofs are replaced we will block up all the holes. White-nose Syndrome has decimated the local bat populations and will likely help in this situation. Contact us at the Library or the Library Board Co-chairperson Carol Smith at 705 246-3942 or carol.wlodarczyk@gmail.com.

Recipe Corner

Cream Puffs

1 stick unsalted butter
(1/2 cup)
1/2 tsp salt
1 cup all-purpose flour
4 large eggs, at room temperature**

Preheat the oven to 400 deg. F. Prepare a baking sheet with a parchment liner.

In a medium saucepan, heat the butter and 1 cup of water and the salt over medium-low heat until the butter melts and the mixture comes to a boil. Remove from the heat. Add the flour all at once and stir well with a wooden spoon until the flour is completely incorporated. It will form a mass.

Return the saucepan to medium heat and cook, stirring constantly and turning the dough over itself often, until it begins to leave a thin film on the bottom of the saucepan, about 3 minutes. (This helps to dry the dough so the cream puffs will be crisp) Transfer the dough to a large bowl.

Add the eggs one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Continue to beat until smooth and shiny.

Drop the dough by rounded spoonfuls onto the prepared baking sheet, forming 12 mounds spaced about 3 inches apart. Pat the tops to make a nice round shape. (I make 10 for larger puffs).

Bake until golden brown, 40 minutes. Turn off the oven and remove puffs. With a small knife, poke a hole in the side of each puff to allow the steam to escape. Return the puffs to the oven for 10 minutes to dry.

Using a serrated knife, cut the puffs part way in half horizontally. Open like a book and scoop out the soft dough from the inside (discard). Transfer cream puffs to a wire rack and let them cool completely. (The puffs can be made ahead of time and frozen, tightly sealed, in a plastic bag. Crisp on a baking sheet in a low oven before using.)

Just before serving – spoon in the filling and dust with confectioners' sugar.

Bon Appetit

**Why use room-temperature eggs when baking?

It's true that cake recipes sometimes specify eggs at room temperature. Why? Mainly because room-temperature eggs (which are less viscous than cold eggs) mix better with the batter and rise more easily. This can make a small difference in the height and texture of ordinary cakes that contain two or three eggs but can make a real difference in cakes that contain a lot of eggs, such as genoese, four-quarter, angel food or sponge cakes. In the past, using room-temperature eggs made the job a lot easier when beating eggs by hand with a whisk. Room-temperature eggs gave much better results than cold eggs. Today, the use of super efficient appliances means the difference still exists but is less important. The temperature of eggs also affects the baking time: a cake will take longer to bake if a recipe calls for room-temperature eggs but cold eggs are used instead. It is easy to warm eggs; just place them in a bowl of warm water for a few minutes.

Steps for Life is a fun, five-kilometre fundraising walk to support families affected by workplace tragedy.

On May 7, Steps for Life will hold its annual event at the John Rhodes Outdoor Sports Complex in Sault Ste. Marie. Registration is at 10 am with the walk to begin at 11 am.

Walking include families, friends and colleagues of those affected by workplace tragedy, teams from safety-conscious companies, organizations, labour and the general public.

Among the teams registered is the Mac Lee Memorial team, my brother. Nine team members, including myself are walking in memory of a loved one taken far too soon due to a work place accident. Mac's sister, Jo-Ann Zimmerman and her family will also be walking.

Mac, also known as Malcolm or Mackie spent most of his life growing up in Sault Ste Marie. As a young man he worked a variety of jobs, but mainly as an auto glass installation.

Mac loved the rodeo life. As a member of the Ontario Rodeo Association he rode the circuit both in Canada and the USA. His chosen events were, bull riding, bronc riding and steer wrestling.

His passion for the rodeo led Mac to a rare opportunity, to play the stunt double for Patrick Duffy in the show Dallas - something he was very proud of.

On August 16, 1986, Mac, married the love of his life, Sarah, in East Bethany, New York. Three weeks later on Sept. 10, 1986, Mac, started a new job on a construction site.

However, on the second day on the job, Mac lost his footing while adjusting the planks on the scaffolding he was standing on and fell 32 feet to his death. Mac was not wearing any safety harness at the time. The company he was employed by failed to provide them.

That day, Sarah became a widow, Mac's mother lost her only son, and his sisters, Donna and Jo-Ann lost their big brother. Mac was only 30 years old.

It has been 30 years since Mac was killed, and not a day goes by that we don't miss him and think of how different life would have been had Mac not lost his life in a workplace tragedy.

Since Mac's death, the Ontario Rodeo Association annually presents the Most Improved Steer Wrestler Award in memory of Mac Lee.

Created in 2004, Steps for Life is the flagship fundraiser for the Association for Workplace Tragedy Family Support, known as Treads of Life.

The annual event raises funds to provide peer support programs and services for Canadian families who have suffered as a result of workplace tragedy and also raises awareness about the importance of workplace health and safety.

This year, Steps for Life will take place in more than 30 communities across Canada.

Five thousand walkers participated across Canada in 2016 raising more than $600,000 for Threads of Life's family support services.

All proceeds from Steps for Life support Threads of Life, a national charitable organization dedicated to helping families to heal after they've been affected by a traumatic workplace fatality, life-altering workplace injury or occupational disease.

Currently, Threads of Life supports more than 2,500 family members from across Canada.

Earth Day Bluebird Boxes

More than 30 Bluebird boxes were made this past Saturday as part of Earth Day in Johnson township, just off the Island. Interestingly enough, the majority of the people there seemed to have made the trek over the bridge to complete the free project brought to us by Algoma Trad and The Kensington Conservancy.

Bluebirds, are you guessed, it small blue birds. They are migratory and should be in the area anytime now. If we get some visiting our completed bird box, you can bet they will be included as a Creature Feature in an upcoming issue.

Not only were all tools and materials provided at no cost, but instructions and various levels of assistance were made available to both young and old so everyone who wanted to build one left with a birdbox they'd be proud to hang up on their property and wait for a chance to see one of the most colourful birds around.

We arrived from the Soo rather late and it was about 20 minutes after midnight when I was shutting down for the night, when a rather fast moving, blue flashing light out of the darkness caught the corner of my eye. The speed was much faster than the usual snow plough. Out of curiosity I went outside. I suspected something. Within a few minutes a Broadspectrum snow plough came over the hill, soon passed me by, at a very good rate of speed, all the while its discharge chute spreading salt on a slightly wet, but perfectly bare highway. I picked up some salt and brought it in to show Sherry. There was no evidence of any ice or snow on the highway. There was no ice. I checked the thermometer, it was well above freezing. When did this ridiculousness occur? In the dead of winter? No. It was last Wednesday April 12th.

This winter I watched as Broadspectrum, (a.k.a. Transfield), went by time after time with its discharge pouring out this corrosive and toxic substance, only to be ploughed to the side ready for the next pass. An easy 5 or 6 times within a day. More salt sometimes than snow. Let's look at yearly cumulative amounts. In any given year, anyone could easily estimate an accumulation of salt of at least half an inch thick that would blanket the highway from shoulder to shoulder. Now multiply that by 10 years. That's 5 inches of salt. Twenty years, 10 inches of salt and on it goes. Since Broadspectrum has taken over my estimates probably pale to actual deposition rates. Picture a highway covered in salt a foot deep and you have highway 548. You will never convince me that there are no personal or environmental damages at this rate of deposition. What about the animals? What do they do?

One conclusion is that Broadspectrum has no regard for our health, our environment, or our tax dollars. Consider this: if you deploy salt before ploughing, the salt sinks through the snow, creates a water layer next to the pavement which can lead to an uncontrollable skid. This is winter hydroplaning. It is dangerous. Has Broadspectrum ever salted before ploughing? Yes. How many times? The more they salt, the more they get paid.

Time after time we drove through Gawas Bay and each and every time so much salt had been poured on that section of highway it was as if early spring rains had come. Streams of water rushed down both sides of the highway. But, it was in the dead of winter. Only on the rarest of occasions was sand ever used. This toxic river extends from within the Village to Kent's Korner, from the B Line to Kent's Korner and from there to the turnoff, at highway 17.

Remember last year? There were literally ribbons of salt along the shoulders of the road. Handfuls of road salt could be picked up all along the highway from Hilton Beach to the turnoff that lasted until early summer. We have the dated photographs to prove this. These deep bands of salt remained and lasted through all the spring rains. Tons and tons more than necessary. Only certain sections of 548 are classified for salt. Classify all of the Island, to the turnoff, to be salt free. Out of its element salt rots, rusts and corrodes everything in its path. Wells along this route have already been replaced because of salt damage.

New studies have just been released that highway salt is leading to rising salinity in the Great Lakes basin. Many municipalities have outlawed this corrosive, toxic and costly procedure in favour of sand, brine or in some cases a biodegradable alternative. Studies have shown, and Tony Stasie has written that our water table on the island is from rain and not ground seepage from the surrounding lakes. What is more important? Our environment, our lives, or the profits of a company that has no respect for anything, but profit?

This has been an ongoing issue for years, articles written to Island Clippings, discussions remembered. NOW is the time for our councils to act. Demand from the MTO that effected sections of Highway 548 be reclassified to a sand only treatment. Most of our island is ploughed with a high winter maintenance of sand only. Before there are serious salt problems in the water supplies of the Village or the Landing now is the time for action and not when desalination expenses blow fragile municipal budgets to pieces.
