While enjoying our thanksgiving weekend, we took a trip back in Island Clippings history. Long term residents will recall the early years when the original owners Ted & Julie Lumley started The Clippings back in 1995. Before we took over the Clippings, we never saw any of these early issues. We had read through many of the Foxes past issues and, as you know, we maintain an online archive of all of their issues as well as ours on our website, islandclippings.com After going through some early issues that have been archived in binders stored in boxes at my parent’s house, we got to thinking of scanning them and adding them to the archive as well. As far as we know a lot of the original files have been lost, and we were unable to find any issues earlier than issue #158 but even those early issues are very rare.

Lost in these issues is some great content. Below is a republishing of one of the many interesting articles we have been reading through, now that we finally took home our boxes of Clippings archives, one year after taking over the Clippings. Of course, we have not gone through them all and we may find a few more interesting pieces that we will republish in the future. We will scan the old issues we have and get them up on islandclippings.com, so everyone will be able to read them at their leisure.

If anyone has any older issues from 2008 or earlier that they can contribute a digital scan of, please email us. This is a bit of a long-term project, but we should be able to get a fair bit of them online for anyone feeling
Did You Know...by Eleanor Adcock

Did you know that there used to be cheese factories on St. Joseph Island? I have spoken with several people about them but am still short on details. Mr. Jim Reed told me that his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Reed, started up and operated the one at Hamilton's Bay, on the east side of the island when they were first married nearly 100 years ago. He also told me that his mother won a prize with her cheese at the Chicago World Fair. Quite an achievement for a St. Joseph Islander so long ago. However no one seems to remember hearing how many years that factory was in operation nor why it closed. Alf Still remembers the buildings accessible by water but there had also been a road cut through the bus to it from the W Line just north of the Hamilton Bay Road. Over the years it has been a home and a summer home and repaired and altered. The name “Cheese Johnny” was well remembered but I had difficulty finding is family name. Mr. Reed told me it was Plentiman (I may not have it spelled correctly.) Apparently he had 3 cheese factories on the Hilton Road at one time or another, the main one having been at the corner of the 16th Side Road and the Hilton Road. All of those failed due to an inadequate supply of milk in the area. He had a much larger one near the corner of the F & G and the A Line. Mrs. Margaret McKay remembers her uncle Wilf Gilroy gathered the milk from the farmers and delivered it to the cheese factory by horses and wagon. That factory operated during the 1st World War years but Mrs. McKay doesn’t remember or how many years.

St. Joseph Island also had a creamery for many years. I have not been able to find out who started it and when, but Mr. Stan Tranter took it too over some time in the 1930s. Mr. Clyde Cummings gathered the cream by truck from all over the island. Mr. Emerson Smith was the butter-maker. The St. Joseph Island Creamery closed down in the late 1950s and was bought by the Algoma Co-op Creamery at Bruce Mines. The Algoma Co-op Creamery bought the wrappers for the famous high-grade St. Joseph Island butter and continued to use the name and buy St. Joseph Island cream for as long as it was in operation.

Also on the cover back on September 29th 2000:

911 is Here

9-1-1 Emergency telephone service is now in operation on St. Joseph Island, as well as neighbouring municipalities on the North Shore. In the event of an emergency requiring police, fire, or ambulance services, simply dial 9-1-1. When your call is answered, you will be asked which emergency service you require. You will also be asked the location of the emergency. Please ensure that all members of your family know your Civic Address. It is important that your Civic Address number sign is posted in an appropriate location which is visible from the road or street, as emergency response personnel will be dispatched to that address and may not be familiar with your area.

Jocelyn Landfill Resident

This black bear has taken up residence in the Jocelyn Landfill and roams the area around the dump. He has been seen on Wierzbicki Drive and property surround the landfill but mainly stays close to his main source of food. He is not afraid of humans, as the spectators standing less than 50 feet from him as well as cars and trucks coming and going into the landfill. He has been spotted in neighbouring yards and was even bold enough to peer through a screen door while the owner was sitting in his kitchen, eating.

The MNR was notified about the nuisance bear because of a fear for children in the area but apparently the MNR doesn’t trap and relocate animals anymore. They supplied the telephone number of someone who does, but he charges for the service whether the bear is caught or not.

Along with the bear, a large number of coyotes have been sited in the area as well. They are seen in the daytime as well as heard howling during the night. Now that hunting season is upon us, hopefully the hunters will drive the unwelcome visitors back into the swamps and uninhabited areas of the island.

Note: The 911 article really surprised us. I would have never guessed that 911 service here is considerably younger than us!

Again look for some of this older content to appear on our website islandclippings.com in the coming weeks.

Slow Cooker Sticky Chicken Wings
www.damndelicious.net

Yield: 6 servings
Prep Time: 10 minutes
Cook Time: 4 hours 20 minutes
Total Time: 4 hours 30 minutes

The easiest wings you will ever make. Just throw everything into the crockpot and you're set! Easy peasy!

Ingredients:
- 3 pounds chicken wings
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1 tablespoon sesame seeds
- 2 tablespoons chopped fresh cilantro leaves

For the sauce:
- 1/3 cup reduced sodium soy sauce
- 1/3 cup balsamic vinegar
- 1/3 cup brown sugar, packed
- 1/4 cup honey
- 3 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 teaspoon Sriracha, or more, to taste
- 1 teaspoon ginger powder
- 1 teaspoon ground pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon onion powder

Directions:

In a large bowl, whisk together soy sauce, balsamic vinegar, brown sugar, honey, garlic, Sriracha, ginger powder, pepper and onion powder.

Place wings into a slow cooker. Stir in soy sauce mixture and gently toss to combine. Cover and cook on low heat for 3-4 hours or high heat for 1-2 hours.

In a small bowl, whisk together cornstarch and 2 tablespoons water. Stir in mixture into the slow cooker. Cover and cook on high heat for an additional 10-15 minutes, or until the sauce has thickened.

Preheat oven to broil. Line a baking sheet with foil.

Place wings onto the prepared baking sheet and broil for 2-3 minutes, or until caramelized and slightly charred.

Serve immediately with remaining sauce, garnished with sesame seeds and cilantro, if desired.

Get that old unit out of the way and dispose of it easily on October 28th.

American Toad

Sighting of these guys should be just about over for the year, although if this warm weather continues you may still see them, especially near the road. While on the subject of the road at this time of year it seems animal sightings on the roads have increased and we recommend being extra alert. Recently we have seen a couple of porcupines who unfortunately have been killed.

While there are many species of frogs on St. Joseph Island, there is only one species of toad. The American Toad is one of 2 species native to Ontario, the other only existing in the extreme southern parts.

American toads are found in a wide variety of habitats, from mown grass and gardens to heavily forested areas. Their thick skin helps prevent dehydration and allows them to use drier habitats that frogs and other amphibians cannot.

The American toad grows to approximately 11cm. Most of the ones we’ve seen here have been smaller. Their tadpoles are black. Both tadpoles and toads have poison glands in the skin that reduce their susceptibility to predators. A dog that picks up a toad will drop it and may foam at the mouth but will not be hurt. Humans often think they got peed on when they pick them up, but it is in fact the poison (maybe pee too if you’re extremely unlucky). Toads consume any number of small insects, worms and slugs.

Since these toads can survive in a variety of habitats they are less at risk then frogs who prefer more specific areas. They are not a threatened species and common both here and throughout much of North America.

Sacred Economics: Money, Gifts & Society in the Age of Transition (2011) by Eisenstein
The More Beautiful World Our Hearts Know is Possible (2013) by Eisenstein
The Economics of Happiness (2007) by Mark Anielski

This is a three book, two author review: “Sacred Economics”, “The More Beautiful World our Hearts Know is Possible” and “The Economics of Happiness”. These books were laid out on display at the St. Joseph Island Library in Richards Landing so I scooped them all.

These books take a deep dive examining our current economic model and its consequence. They review past economic systems and suggest future models. The premise is that our current model, based on continuous growth, consumption and a disconnect from natural laws, is failing us.

If you like storytelling, philosophical and metaphorical writing, you may prefer Eisenstein’s works. Eisenstein has coined a term called inter-being, roughly equivalent to being connected to everything. For those who like data you will likely get more from Anielski and “The Economics of Happiness”. He illustrates how to measure the five capitals of Genuine Wealth: Human, Social, Natural, Built and Financial.

These, and other books we have reviewed, state that we have been sliding down the rabbit hole of consumerism and debt. A look at figure 3.5 in “The Economics of Happiness” should cause one to pause, especially given the data only goes to 2004 where the US debt curve (which mirrors world-wide debt) had risen to $41,000 billion. For those who follow such things, the debt curve has continued its rise and more steeply. As of September 2017 the US debt is now over 20 Trillion.

Anielski quotes that human nature seems wired towards “the more we make the more we want …. aspiring for more material wealth”. Anielski states that whether because of the aging baby boomers or something else, there is a growing consciousness or shift from the current objective indicator of economic progress, the GDP (gross national product), to other indicators which focus on happiness and our relationship with family, community and nature.

Anielski writes “We often compromise the pursuit of happiness and the good life in the mere accumulation of material things…. we have lost our imagination about how we can meet our deeper needs (spiritual or worldly) without money”. He continues that our current banking system can now only exist in the debt based model. The authors suggest possible solutions.

All three books are fascinating reading and can be found at the St. Joseph Library in Richards Landing.
St Joseph Township Public Library Update

St Joseph Township Public Library has been offered a challenge, A Food For Fines week from Oct 15 to the 21st. When you bring food in to the library for our local food bank, your overdue fine will be erased. At the end of the week we will weigh what we have collected. A number of Northern Ontario Libraries have been accepting the challenge. I think we are up to it!

Then on Saturday the 21st make sure to stop in as we will be hosting an Alzheimer Society Coffee Break from 10am-3pm. There will be baked goodies along with tea, cider and coffee. When you’re in check out our new and exciting piece of equipment.

A Cricut Explore Air 2! It is an electronic cutting machine for DIY projects and crafts. It precisely cuts over 100 materials – everything from cardstock, vinyl, and iron-on to thicker materials like leather and felt. Quick, beautiful, and precise cuts for cards, custom T-shirts, home décor, and so much more. The library has a selection of materials available at a fee or bring in your own material. Come in and check it out. We will be looking for a facilitator to run a workshop with our Cricut, if that might be you call: 246-2353, email: sjtlibrary@gmail.com or stop in.

Thank You
Heartfelt thank you, especially to Dr. Lupien plus Nurses Hayley, Vern, Sinnette and Rocky at Matthews Memorial Hospital for their immediate, efficient and expedient care of Rick during his short stay. Without Matthews Hospital, Dr. Lupien and staff on St. Joseph Island, Rick’s situation would have had other dire consequences. Thank you also to Joyce and Bonnie for their kindness and sense of humour, plus Rick was thrilled to experience a ride in your new ambulance. May GOD bless you and keep you doing your jobs so well. Rick and Ang Green
