New Cell Towers to be Taken Down!

WE SUPPOSE IT WAS ALL TOO GOOD to be true. Through the use of craft, subterfuge and skullduggery, the Island Clippings has gained possession of a confidential Bell Mobile Corporation document bringing blockbuster news that, once made public, will rock our island community to its very core.

Although the official announcement will be made on April 1st, we feel that our readers deserve to be informed right now of what's already happening right under our noses.

The confidential internal BMC memo reveals that a colossal mistake was made in Bell Mobile's original planning. The cellular towers being built on St. Joseph Island weren't supposed to be here at all! The towers were actually planned for the community of St. Jerome Island, located on Musselman's Lake, near Ballantrae, Ontario.

Through an error in filing the proper papers, the BMC planning office forwarded the orders to Zone III (which services our area), instead of to Zone Iii, which services the Stouffville area, in which Musselman's Lake – and St. Jerome Island – are located. A sleepy, inattentive clerk is blamed for the confusion. We've also learned that the unnamed clerk has since been transferred to new career opportunities at BMC's office in Muskrat Dam, located so remotely in far-off Northwest Ontario that it will make your nose bleed!

Bell Mobile Corporation is moving quickly to correct its error before the word spreads too far. We spoke with corporate spokesperson James John Jim McStake about the situation and his news isn't good. "Essentially, we have no budget for providing cellular coverage in both communities. Our excess budget this year was spent on putting a telephone pole next to my new swimming pool and buying each of my daughters an Iphone5." he blushed. "Since the towers built on St. Joseph Island were intended for St. Jerome Island, we have no choice but to dismantle them and move them to where they belong." he said.

Although a terrible development for us, the news has been met with wild enthusiasm by all six residents of St. Jerome Island, who are now eagerly awaiting the coming of THEIR new towers. "Up until now, we've all had to go over to Sadie's" whooped one resident, referring to his neighbour, a former telephone operator and the owner of the island's only telephone booth.

[We should explain to kids that a telephone booth is a little one-person house with glass walls, where people had to pay money to use a telephone that wasn't hardwired in their house. Phone booths are bigger than a tablet or desktop computer and aren't very portable. The word 'telephone' was used in the olden days to describe a quaint device that was often rotary dialed, had no display screen, wasn't connected to the internet and didn't text worth a darn. It was usually accompanied in the phone booth by a 'Telephone Directory', which is a hard copy, manual 'contacts list', although most of the time they had been stolen or vandalized before you got there.]

"We ARE very sorry for this mix-up and we'll do our best to make up for it." James John Jim continued. "I've been authorized to contract with your Island's Share Sheds and local flea markets to buy up every old television antenna that comes in. If we get enough of them spread around the island, we're sure that we can bring you a cellular signal" he beamed. but added under his breath "provided you don't mind standing on one leg and flapping your arms like a chicken ..."

Ironically, it will be James John Jim's first cousin, BMC supervisor Jordan John Jim McStake who will be in charge of executing the orders to dismantle "our" towers. We were able to reach Jordan John Jim right here at the J Line camp of his cousins Jamie June Jonna and Joanie Jamie Jonna McStake. Neither Jordan John Jim, nor Jamie June Jonna nor Joanie Jamie Jonna seemed too upset at this unexpected development. "We live in Johnstown, in James County New Jersey (pronounced Joyzee) and our AT&T cell signal works just fine here at camp." smirked Jamie June Jonna – or was that Joanie Jamie Jonna?

"We're sorry, but we've got our orders. We're to start taking down those towers first thing in the morning of April 1st." Jordan John Jim intoned. "It's not up to us. Anybody who disobeys that direct order would be a fool ... and there's no fool like an April fool!"

OK, by now you've hopefully figured out that this story is completely bogus. It's merely our homage to next Tuesday being 'April Fool's Day.' As far as we know, our towers are here to stay and our REAL Bell Mobility contacts tell us that construction is completed, the wiring and connecting is currently underway and Bell Mobility hope to have the towers activated in the very near future.

Then perhaps we too can become modern, 'connected' people who no longer make eye contact or conversation, lest we miss something important on our phones.

'Walking on the Grass'

The room was full of pregnant women with their husbands. The instructor said, "Ladies, remember that exercise is good for you. Walking is especially beneficial. It strengthens the pelvic muscles and will make delivery that much easier

"Just pace yourself, make plenty of stops and try to stay on a soft surface like grass or a path."

And the instructor went on. "Gentlemen, remember — you're in this together. It wouldn't hurt you to go walking with her. In fact, that shared experience would be good for you both."

The room suddenly became very quiet as the men absorbed this disturbing information. After a few moments a man, who shall remain nameless, at the back of the room, slowly raised his hand.

"Yes?" said the Instructor.

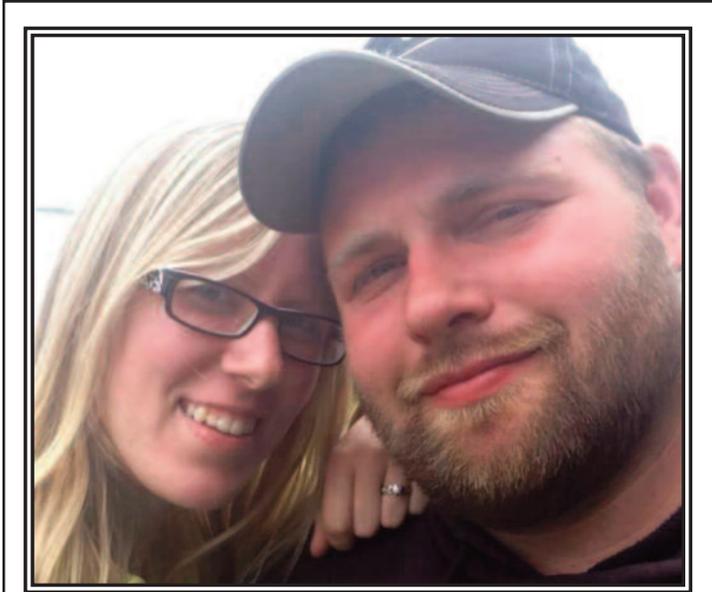

"I was just wondering if it would be all right if she carries a golf bag while we walk?"

Brings a tear to your eye, doesn't it?

Gonna Be A Bear!

In this life, I'm a woman. In my next life, I'd like to come back as a bear. When you're a bear, you get to hibernate. You do nothing but sleep for six months. I could deal with that!

Before you hibernate, you're supposed to eat yourself stupid. I could deal with that too!

When you're a girl bear, you birth your children (who are the size of walnuts) while you're sleeping and wake to partially grown, cute cuddly cubs. I could definitely deal with that!

If you're Mama Bear, everyone knows you mean business. You swat anyone who bothers your cubs. If your cubs get out of line, you swat them too. I could deal with that!

If you're a bear, your mate EXPECTS you to wake up growling. He EXPECTS that you will have hairy legs and excess body fat.

Yup, gonna be a bear!

Saving the ACR

This is my plea to keep the ACR passenger train running.

We camp owners along the line depend on this vital link.

One March break our twenty month old daughter's temperature kept rising. In the morning, her temperature sky rocketed so we made a quick decision to break camp and get her to the hospital. The conditions were such that just getting to the tracks was difficult but we got there just in time. We were very grateful that the train provided this emergency route out from camp.

When our adopted daughter arrived at not quite five years old, she couldn't handle the cold. This meant that for several years, our family made our frequent trips to camp by train in the winter. My two girls have fond memories of waiting for the train, flagging the train down and enjoying the comradery of other rail travellers.

For many years our family hosted train/cross-country ski weekends to our camp. It was not uncommon for our daughters to have groups of 20 or more young people up. It was our delight to share our love of the wilderness with these young people. The ACR was the only reasonable means of transportation for groups of this size. I am constantly being told by these no longer young people what fond memories they have of those train trips to camp.

My husband and I are now senior citizens and experiencing some health concerns. We count on the train to get us out if we are not well or if we become injured. As the years march on, I was hoping to use the train more frequently to extend the number of years that we will have to enjoy the camp experience.

With major focuses on tourism and economic feasibility I wanted to express that there are sentimental human factors to this decision as well. The Algoma Central Railway has played an important role in allowing my family to enjoy the true Northern Ontario life style.

develop a business case, and it's important that stakeholders take part in the exercise”

The ACR Passenger Service Working Group represents a larger committee of concerned stakeholders, including municipalities, First Nations, tourism lodge operators and land owners along the line. With the Sault-to-Hearst rail link set to cease operating on April 29, the group is working to preserve this crucial transportation infrastructure by keeping the run operating in the short-term while a longer-term solution is found.

The Working Group recently retained the services of BDO Canada LLP, one of the country's largest accounting and advisory firms. Its Sault Ste. Marie branch is helping to develop an economic impact assessment of the ACR passenger rail line, which will be used to make the case to the Federal Government that the link is worth investing in. The survey will help pinpoint the employment and other financial benefits of the run, will be used to support the assessment. To date, nearly 200 people have completed the survey.

“We're very happy with the uptake so far, and we encourage stakeholders who haven't completed the survey to do so by Sunday, March 23,” said Mr. Dodds. “The survey results will play a key role in BDO's economic impact assessment, so the more stakeholders who provide input, the better.”

Fire Safety in Freezing Conditions

THIS COLD, SEEMINGLY-ENDLESS WINTER has certainly taken its toll. By now, even diehard winter enthusiasts are getting a little weary of the continuously frigid conditions. Many northern communities must also contend with infrastructure failures due to frozen municipal water mains. While some residents might be asked by municipal authorities to run their water continuously for a certain period to help clear a frozen water line, it's not an option for everyone to do so. That would put far too much strain on the community's water resources, thereby causing an even bigger problem.

Frozen water mains can also create dangerous fire safety problems and increase the risk of firefighting, by leaving many commercial or apartment buildings without protection from their sprinkler systems and roadside hydrants unable to provide water for fighting residential fires. In these conditions, it's more critical than ever that we all take every possible precaution to prevent fires from even starting.

The Ontario Fire Marshall's Office remind us all to take some simple fire safety precautions:

- Avoid using torches or open flames to thaw pipes and never use these indoors.
- Have working smoke alarms on every storey of your home and outside all sleeping areas. If your smoke alarms are wired into the household electrical system, make sure you have a battery back-up so they will still alert you to a fire if there is a power outage.
- Test your smoke alarms monthly.
- Avoid using candles – choose safer alternatives such as flashlights, flameless candles and glow sticks.
- If you smoke, smoke outdoors and obey “No Smoking” signs in your building. Never smoke where medical oxygen is being used.
- Never leave cooking unattended – stay in the kitchen and keep items that can catch fire away from the stove.

- If you use a portable space heater, plug the heater directly into the wall outlet, not an extension cord. Keep the heater away from anything that can burn. Turn off the heater before leaving home or going to bed.
- Plan and practice your escape plan so everyone can get out safely and quickly in the event of a fire.
- Make sure that fire access routes are clearly marked and kept clear.

For more information on keeping your home and family safe, visit the Ontario Fire Marshall's website at www.ontario.ca/firemarshal

Four high school boys afflicted with spring fever skipped morning classes. After lunch they reported to the teacher that they had a flat tire.

Much to their relief she smiled and said: "Well, you missed a test today so take seats apart from one another and take out a piece of paper."

Still smiling, she waited for them to sit down.

Then she said:

"First Question: Which tire was flat?"
