Carol Anne from Bee Joyful Sewing on St. Joseph Island shared with Juniper about the completion which has a prize ($100) for online voting and the option of displaying the quilt at the national quilting event this June in Mississauga. The prize for in person is a new Janome sewing machine. Bee Joyful is sponsoring Juniper and she is participating in both aspects of the challenge.

This year's challenge was to make a quilt with a specific piece of material and the theme of stargazing.

Juniper designed and made this quilt with a little help and guidance from Grandma. She called this Star Gazing on the Beach.

She provided the following artist statement about her quilt: "This quilt reminds me of a hot summer night on our beach on St. Joseph Island, enjoying a bonfire and gazing up to the stars. Sometimes when I look hard enough into the sky I see magical things like unicorns and shooting stars. On the quilt the orange

FIRST MEETING OF 'UNDERSTANDING DIFFERENT POLITICAL PERSPECTIVES' A SUCCESS

Sixteen Island residents met last Tuesday at the Old Town Hall in Richards Landing for a discussion of different perspectives on political issues. Participants, ranging in age from their late teens to those in their retirement years, were given some ground rules at the beginning of the meeting with emphasis on being open-minded, asking clarifying questions, being accountable and being respectful of different opinions and positions.

The main goal of the evening was understanding by sharing ideas and actively listening to the ideas of others. Everyone was asked to focus on patience, attention, compassion and empathy.

There was a wide-ranging discussion touching on issues from Western discontent, immigration, corporate control, climate change and the environment and how to find reliable sources of information. After two hours the conversation wound down with a discussion on impressions of the recent federal election and what lies ahead in national politics.

Though there were some disagreements, these were addressed respectfully with questioning used to further the discussion. The group agreed that this had been a valuable opportunity and important to the political process and wanted to meet again. New-comers are welcome to join the discussion for our second meeting on Tuesday May 27th at 7pm, again at the Old Town Hall.
